How do I get there?

If you are travelling from Albury:

South along Wodonga Place,

Travel over the Murray river bridge into Victoria,

Take the first Left Hand turn into Gateway village

Parking is just south of the Hothouse Theatre offices

If you are travelling from Wodonga:

Head north onto the Lincoln Causeway

Continue past Black Duck cafe and the RH turn off to Diamond Park

Turn right at the next set of traffic lights on the Causeway

Parking is to your right south of Hothouse Theatre offices

Is there parking?

Yes. There is plenty of parking south of Hothouse Theatre offices on the Lincoln Causeway. Rotary volunteers will be there to guide you to your park.

What do I bring?

Yourself, friends and family.

Dogs on leads are welcome if they are well socialized.

Your sense of playful discovery

You may want to also bring mosquito repellent and possibly a jumper if the night is going to get cold

Is it an all-access event?

Wheelchair access:

The event is a trail of art along a concrete path that is wheelchair friendly.

However, the lantern making workshop is off the concrete path. All other artworks will be accessible by wheelchair.

Low Vision access:

The artworks are not audio described so you may want to bring an interpreter.

The path is lit but not very brightly so you may want to bring someone along to help guide you if you have low vision.

Low hearing access:

Some of the works have soundscapes running alongside the visuals. There is limited text interpretation accompanying those works however the visuals themselves tell the stories quite powerfully

Is there food and drink available?

Yes, we have food trucks providing a range of food on the night.

Can I bring my own food and drink?

You are very welcome to bring your own food, picnic rug, folding chairs etc and enjoy the night as we wait for the sun to go down.

The space is strictly no BYO alcohol

Is there seating?

There is limited seating near the food trucks

There is also plenty of grass for you to throw your picnic rug down or you can bring a folding chair.

What happens if it rains?

If rain is forecast for the night we will reschedule the event to 6-8.30pm Saturday April 23rd, 2022
